TCGH AMBULANCE SERVICE IS THERE IN AN EMERGENCY

ILLAMOOK COUNTY General Hospital (TCGH) has one of the six hospital-based ambulance services in Oregon, and we are committed to providing prehospital care to the entire county.

Each year, TCGH emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and paramedics respond to nearly 3,000 calls, including medical emergencies, motor vehicle crashes, recreational accidents and water rescues. EMTs and paramedics also transport patients to Portland-area hospitals for specialty care not locally available.

“Our EMTs and paramedics are the face of Adventist Health in the communities that we serve,” says Larry Davy, CEO of TCGH. “Our goal is to extend the exceptional care that we provide at Tillamook County General Hospital to our community when they have a prehospital emergency.”

A LOOK BACK

In 1974, TCGH began providing ambulance service to Tillamook County residents, after buying the service from Waud’s Funeral Home. The hospital was able to offer basic emergency medical care by EMTs, who lived in the hospital’s fourth-floor penthouse during their 24-hour shifts.

During the mid-’80s the hospital began providing advanced life support with certified paramedics. The hospital was one of the first on the Oregon coast to offer full-time —Continued on page 3 paramedic-level care by some of the first paramedics in Oregon.

TCGH has four ambulance stations, strategically located in Manzanita, Garibaldi, Tillamook and Pacific City. On-duty ambulance crews respond to emergencies around the clock with the latest advancements in prehospital care.

SERVING WITH EXCELLENCE

The Ambulance Department has been recognized by the state as a leader in prehospital care. Twice, the department has been awarded a Unit Citation for excellence in emergency medical services (EMS) care in extreme circumstances. This year the department has been nominated for two more EMS awards.

EMTs and paramedics have unlimited opportunities to sharpen their clinical skills by working in the Emergency Department and Operating Room. Working side-by-side with nurses, physicians and other hospital technicians allows a seamless transfer of care from the ambulance to the Emergency Department.

“When all care providers are working together to fulfill our mission, the patient benefits by receiving much better care,” Davy says. “We consider it a privilege to serve our community with quality EMS care. The ambulance service that we provide is an essential part of our ongoing mission of service to our community.”
